Senate Will Get Peace Treaties For Ratification

Treaties Signed Yesterday To Be Sent To Senate For Early Action

SENATE BATTLE MAY DEVELOP

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, (R) Mich., chairman of the foreign relations committee, today planned to call former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes to testify in support of ratification of the peace treaties for Italy and the four Axis satellite states.

Vandenberg, who helped draft the treaties as one of Byrnes' top congressional advisers, was expected to support their ratification in the face of what may develop into a serious senate fight.

In addition to calling Byrnes, Vandenberg also planned to call the present Secretary of State George C. Marshall if it is "physically possible." This statement was based on the fact that Marshall is due to be in Moscow on March 10 to draft the peace treaties for Germany and Austria.

Treaties Are Signed
The treaties were signed in Versailles yesterday in solemn ceremonies as some of the defeated powers and Yugoslavia protested vigorously. In Italy there were widespread demonstrations against the peace treaty decision affecting Trieste and Venezia, Julio.

Yugoslavia, while on the victor's side, had indicated at one time that it would not sign the treaty because of the provisions governing Trieste, wanted as a warm water port for the Soviet Union.

This threat was not taken seriously by higher United States officials. The Tito government had clear to the Tito government that as long as Yugoslavia did not sign the treaty, U. S. forces would remain in occupation of the area.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Pa. New observed that a few of the roads in rural areas are still blocked with snow. In several places snow plows were unable to get through, the snow being too deep.

Weather conditions apparently don't have much effect on limiting auto traffic these days, as Pa. New in a few minutes yesterday noted an auto carrying a Utah license and a truck displaying an Alabama license.

Just in case there is another snow, accompanied by high winds, the Jameson Memorial on the front entrance protected against drifts. Sunday night's snow filled the driveway, and resulted in a lot of cars being stalled. The city cooperated by scraping out the driveway, and the maintenance engineer secured some metal lath, which will be put up across the knoll in front of the hospital.

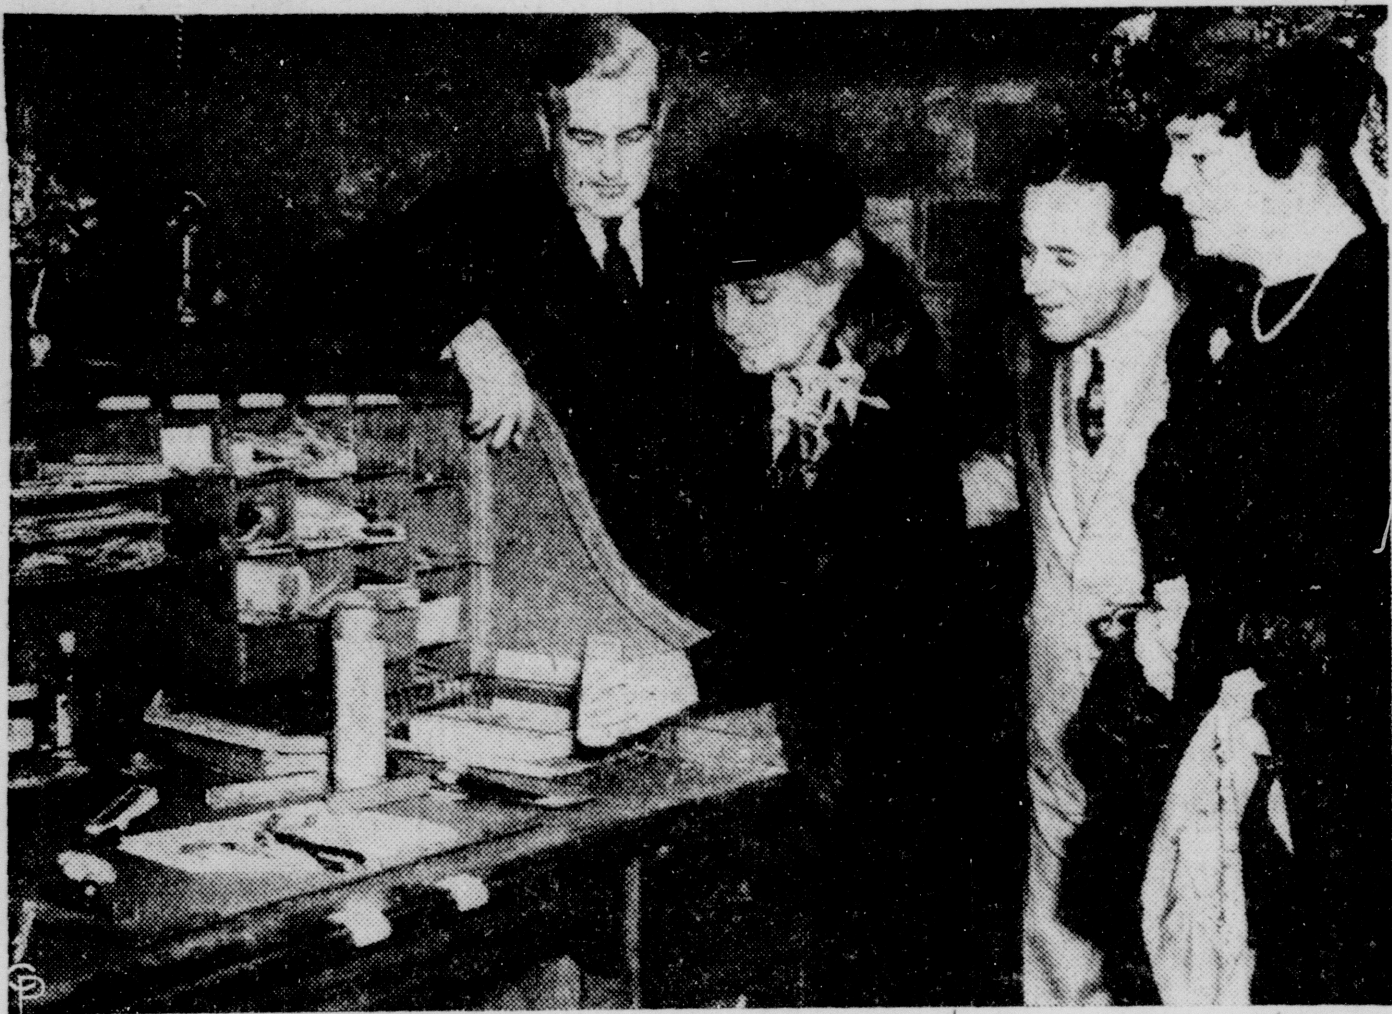

Every day now the sun is swinging farther north and we gain almost two minutes of daylight each day. In other words, tomorrow the sun will rise one minute sooner and set one minute later than it did today. This will go on for about a month, when the gain will be more pronounced. We will have gained 52 additional minutes of daylight by March 11 but between March 11 and April 11 we will lose 50 minutes, and from May 11 to June 11 it will only be 35 minutes. Between June 11 and July 11 we will lose six minutes as the sun starts swinging southward again, and so on.

Daily Weather Report

United States weather statistics for the 24-hour period ending at 9 a. m. today follow:
Maximum temperature, 24.
Minimum temperature, 18.
Precipitation, traces snow.
River stage, 6.7 feet.

Statistics for the same date a year ago follow:
Maximum temperature, 45.
Minimum temperature, 21.
Precipitation, .05 inches.

Edison's Rolltop Desk Opened After 16 Years

Sealed since his death in 1931, Thomas A. Edison's rolltop desk in the Edison Library, West Orange, N. J., is reopened by (l. to r.): his son, Charles; the inventor's widow, Mary West Edison, Jr.; and the wizard's daughter, Mrs. John Sloan. Although mediums had declared the desk contained "a momentous message," no such material was found. Opening of the desk was a preliminary to the 100th anniversary of Edison's birthday. The numerous scientific papers that were found will be studied by experts.

Navy's Antarctic Party Watches Conquest Of Ice Barrier Leaving Little America

By LEE VAN ATTA
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

Representing the Combined American Press ABOARD THE ICEBREAKER NORTH WIND, Feb. 11.—More than one thousand members of the navy's Antarctic party crowded the decks of the five vessels evacuating them from Little America today and watched the conquest of the Ross ice barrier.

Rear Adm. Richard H. Cruzen was elated over the rapid progress of the convoy. He said the shepherding of two icebreakers—originally only one was expected—may make it possible for the party to arrive at Scott Island on Monday, two days ahead of schedule.

Many Icebergs
With the approach of the Antarctic winter, icebergs of all sizes have drifted north from the polar continent and south from the Scott Island bank to meet in the area where the great barrier is formed.

Already a gigantic ice sheet has coated the waters and joined three frozen masses into the historic barrier. (Continued on Page Two)

(BULLETIN)

HAWKINSVILLE, Ga., Feb. 11.—(INS)—The entire business section of Hawkinsville, Ga., was endangered today after fire converted half a block of the uptown district into an exploding, blazing inferno.

Firemen were unable to hold the blaze under control, and by 11 a. m. it had gutted the Hawkinsville newspaper offices, a theater and was flashing toward other business structures.

The building of the Martin and Thompson theater, offices of the theater firm, and the Hawkinsville Dispatch and News building were burned out.

In the same block the telephone exchange, a building and supply store and a pressing club, all were threatened.

The fire was discovered about 10 a. m. in the theater building. An explosion a half hour later blew out the front of the theater and the adjoining offices.

No casualties had been reported during the first hour. The Hawkinsville fire department had eight lines of hose led out to the scene. They prepared to call for assistance from nearby Cochran and Perry fire departments.

Winter's Icy Grip On District Is Relaxed

(By International News Service)

Old Man Winter today relaxed his icy grip on Western Pennsylvania. Temperatures made their first real rise in almost a week and biting winds had passed.

Northwestern areas were digging out of 30 inches of snow and a few roads were still closed.

The Weather Bureau said a warm flow of southwestern air was over the area today, bringing the "warmer" temperatures.

All main highways were reported open to traffic but many secondary roads in Erie, Warren, Crawford, McKean, Somerset, Greene, Fayette and Westmoreland counties were still closed.

The Ohio river was frozen between Midland and Wheeling, W. Va., slowing river transportation. All rivers were carrying running ice.

The fire was not sustained above-freezing temperature in prospect.

Question Hughes On Expenditure On Largest Plane

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(INS)—The Senate War Investigating Committee questioned airplane builder Howard Hughes today on the expenditure of 18 million dollars of government funds to develop the world's largest sea plane, which has never flown.

Chairman Brewster (R) Maine, said the committee has been investigating "for some time" the construction of the huge transport plane, designed to carry 700 soldiers.

Brewster said Hughes volunteered to come before the committee. The industrialist testified in a closed hearing.

The Maine senator added that the committee was interested in expenditure of 18 million dollars through the RFC for development of the Hughes airplane because neither the army nor the navy had accepted plans for the big ship.

Contract for the plane's construction now is in the possession of the Hughes Tool Co., of Dallas, Tex., one of Hughes' interests.

Police Probe Los Angeles' Latest Murder

Husband Of Woman Found Slain Yesterday Is Being Questioned

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—(INS)—Police today questioned the taciturn lumberjack-built husband of a pert, one-time screen beauty whose nude body, mutilated in Black Dahlia fashion, was found on a Los Angeles lot.

Police arrested the husband, Frank F. French, in a Santa Monica, Cal., room the slain beauty, Jeanne Axford French, rented for him shortly after dismissal of wife beating charges against him.

The former actress' body, her face and breast bearing imprints of a man's boot heel, lay in a desolate area known as "The Moors." She had been brutally trampled to death.

On her breast the killer scrawled "B. D." and the scrawled words "Tex Andy." In Black Dahlia style, Mrs. French had been slashed at the edges of her mouth with a knife.

Initials For "Black Dahlia"
The initials were presumed to stand for "Black Dahlia," leading investigators to seek a link between the actress' death and that of Elizabeth Short, the original Black Dahlia, on Jan. 15.

As questioning of French was begun at the West Los Angeles police station, Mrs. French's son by a former marriage, David Wherther, appeared at the station and pleaded with police.

"Let me talk to him. He'll tell me things he won't tell you," police admitted Wherther but refused to let him question French alone.

Until then French had maintained a dogged silence. Confronted by the son, however, French staunchly denied the slaying. Homicide Capt. Jack Donahoe quoted French as (Continued on Page Two)

Martial Law In Palestine Not Planned

JERUSALEM, Feb. 11.—(INS)—Imposition of full-fledged martial law in Palestine was seen today as hanging entirely upon the Jewish underground.

Though some quarters viewed new British security measures as being tantamount to martial law, authorities assured the Jewish community that martial law was not being contemplated at present.

The new security measures include "confining to barracks" of all British residents of Jerusalem. They are to remain in "protected areas" established under a cantonment system being put into effect Thursday at noon.

Full military control may be imposed, however, in the event of the next big extremist flare-up.

There is said to be no immediate intention of increasing the strength of Palestine garrisons beyond the planned three divisions. The possibility of greater troop arrivals is not ruled out completely, though.

Those British troops arriving to join this garrison in the near future are replacements for men whose discharge groups are maturing.

Lincoln's Presidential Files Are To Be Opened

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(INS)—The contents of Abraham Lincoln's presidential files, for generations a closely guarded Lincoln family secret, will be opened to public view in July of this year.

The collection of some 15,000 letters, manuscripts and documents was given to the nation in 1923 by the great emancipator's son, Robert Todd Lincoln.

Under the terms of the gift the material was to remain secret until 21 years after Robert Lincoln's death.

He died on July 26, 1926, and the papers have since reposed in a sealed vault in the Library of Congress from which they may not be removed until the date fixed by their donor.

Only a handful of persons outside the Lincoln family have been privileged to see the collection in the 82 years since the Civil War president's death.

Source of Speculation
It has been, in all that time, a source of heated speculation for historians and Lincoln biographers as to what new light it may shed on the history of the Civil War years and the men who made it.

President Considering Draft Announcement

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(INS)—President Truman considered today war department recommendations for action on the draft scheduled to expire March 31.

Army officers, who submitted the plans to Mr. Truman, shrouded in the strictest secrecy proposals regarding the numbered days of selective service.

War department officials commented only that the president, after considering their views, would make the announcement affecting draft eligibles.

Hinge On Enlistments
The war department has emphasized that recommendations to congress whether the selective service act should be extended hinge on the number of voluntary enlistments.

Signs Of Senate Floor Battle Over Lilienthal Loom

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—(INS)—Signs of a senate floor battle over David E. Lilienthal's appointment as atomic chief increased today as atomic committee senators summoned Lilienthal's predecessor, Tennessee Valley Authority chief, through Morgan, who feuded with Lilienthal in TVA 10 years ago and was ousted by the late President Roosevelt, Sen. McKellar (D) Tenn., indicated he would turn the spotlight on Lilienthal's public-versus-private ownership views.

As opposition to Lilienthal began to take shape, Sen. Wherry, (R) Neb., announced he will join Sen. Bridges (R) N. H. in fighting Lilienthal's appointment.

The Wherry announcement thus aligned the powerful appropriations committee chairman and the majority whip against Lilienthal, along with McKellar, a power among southern Democratic senators.

Awakened by both sides was an announcement of his position by Sen. Taft (R) Ohio, chairman of the Republican policy committee.

Taft told reporters he had not fully made up his mind. He said he probably will issue a statement on Lilienthal this week.

Mystery Hatchet Attack On Doctor At Baltimore, Md.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 11.—(INS)—Dr. David Franklin, 58, well known Baltimore physician, was near death today as a result of a mysterious attack made upon him in his office while several patients sat in an outer waiting room.

The physician was beaten over the head with a hatchet wielded by an unidentified Negro.

Leaving the doctor in a semi-conscious condition, the assailant calmly walked from the office. A few moments later, Franklin staggered to the waiting room and patients summoned aid.

The victim, suffering from a fractured skull and a brain injury, was unable to talk or write. Asked if he knew his assailant he nodded his head in the affirmative.

Married and the father of four daughters, Franklin has practiced medicine in Baltimore for 35 years.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 11.—(INS)—The Manufacturers Light and Heat Co., at noon today restored natural gas to its commercial customers—schools, cafes, bakeries and hotels—in Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Eastern Ohio.

At the same time People's Natural Gas Co., started the flow of gas to mills again. A spokesman said the company was now prepared to establish its 75 per cent quota system, to be effective until April 1.

Two Fugitives In Prison Break Still At Liberty

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11.—(INS)—Every highway leading from Philadelphia was carefully guarded today as police sought two long term convicts still at large more than 24 hours after a five-man break from the Philadelphia county prison.

The fugitives—William Sutton and Frederick Tenuto—were described as the most desperate members of the quintet that went over the wall to freedom.

Sutton, known to police as "Slick Willie" was serving a life term as a fourth offender. The 46-year-old bank robber had five prison breaks on his record before yesterday's escape and was foiled in at least one other attempt. He reportedly engineered a 12-man break from the Eastern penitentiary in 1945.

Tenuto, 32, was serving 20 to 40 years for robbery and second degree murder. He bid for freedom yesterday was his third within five years.

Three other convicts who fled with Tenuto and Sutton after overpowering a prison guard were captured within a few hours. They were David Aikens, 51; Clarence Klinedinst, 38, and Spencer Waldon, 37.

Alfred Martin, county superintendent of highways, reported that many telephone calls were received by the department Monday and early today, telling of roads that were still blocked. As soon as the calls were received, relief was sent to the area so as to enable the farmers and others who were snow-bound to get in to town or other destinations.

Unless more high winds develop, it was reported, all roads of the county should be open by late today. The majority of the county schools which were forced to call a holiday Monday resumed today.

Arthur Mometer

The wind outside is howling its song of winter wrath, and roads and streets are icy from here to nearly Gath. But I am warm and comfy, there's coal down in the bin, the doors are tight, the room is right and so I sit and grin as I survey the summers past and those I know will come when I can sit out in the shade and hear the honey bees hum. And at my side a radio on any summer day, and listen to the umpire as he arbitrates the play. The winter days will be forgot in torrid July sun, it won't be long from here to them—the weather's thirty-one.

Thirteen City Policemen Temporary Officers

City police department quota is to be raised to 48, as soon as the civil service commission provides Mayor John F. Haven and council with a list of eligibles and their grades. Of the 46 now in service (one is a policeman), 13 are temporary officers. Ten of the 13 temporary officers were on the police force before Mayor Haven was sworn into office. However, some passed the civil service examinations held years ago.

His temporary appointments were: George Houston, former temporary fireman, named June 8, 1944, and Dom Leone and Patsy Rozzi, both ex-servicemen, were appointed January 25, this year.

No Grades Given Eligibles
According to the mayor, he received a list of eligibles, but not their passing grades, and to bolster the police force, because of recent burglaries, asked many of the 29 who passed, to accept temporary appointment.

Practically all of them chose to continue on their present jobs except Leone and Rozzi, until they learned their passing grades or won a permanent place on the police force.

Relative to the 13 temporary appointments, all excepting the three were "inherited" from former administrations. During the war civil service regulations were suspended.

However, some months ago Mayor Haven and council requested the commission to hold examinations. They were held December 3. As stated, approximately 28 of 39 candidates passed. Grades have not yet been made.

Many of the 13, serving temporarily, took the police test and passed.

TWO BROTHERS UNDER ARREST

State Police Charge Local Auto Thefts And Robberies To R. D. 6 Pair

Warren and Jack Costal, 18 and 16 years old, respectively, both of R. D. 6, were under arrest today, accused of the theft of three cars here, one at Mercer and two burglaries, one at the Walmo school, several months ago and a bowling academy, near Greenville, February 10, according to State police and Sheriff Frank Coen who made the arrests yesterday.

Warren Costal was arrested by two State policemen in Highland Heights at 1:15 p. m. yesterday when he stepped into the car reportedly stolen February 10, at Mercer. His brother Jack was arrested by Sheriff Coen last night in Neshannock township. Questioning developed three cars, owned by George Kennedy, 117 North Crawford avenue, Elmer E. McClymonds, 1409 Albert street and John Quindly, 407 Carl street, were stolen by the youths here. All cars were recovered. The brothers were said by State police also to have stolen $100 from a bowling place on Route 58, near Greenville, February 10 night and to have committed a burglary in which $50 was stolen from the Walmo school several months ago. They are held in the city jail.

LINCOLN'S FILES TO BE OPENED

anniversary of the birth of Lincoln, who was born in 1809, students, of Lincoln's life base this prediction on two facts:

Basis For Prediction
1. In the 1880's Robert Lincoln permitted his father's private secretary, John Hay and John G. Nicolay, to use the collection as a source for their monumental ten-volume biography, "The Life of Abraham Lincoln".

2. Robert Lincoln was a man with a strong sense of family dignity who would not have allowed his father's memory to be besmirched by preserving for posterity the skeletons in the family closet.

One expert, Dr. Charles C. Moore, then chief of the Library of Congress manuscript division, reported to Congress in 1923 that, having been closely examined by Hay and Nicolay, the collection would prove to contain little unpublished material.

Historians, to whom such documents are as cigar ashes to Sherlock Holmes, are still hopeful, however, that Robert Lincoln may have deleted objectionable material from the Hay-Nicolay work, with the result that some as yet unknown treasures may lurk in the library's vault.

have a closed-door conference today with the army's personnel chief, Maj. Gen. W. S. Paul. Reports for the months of November and December showed that the army secured scarcely half of the estimated 35,000 men needed monthly to replace those whose short-term enlistments are expiring rapidly.

The picture brightened with announcement of the latest recruiting figures. They showed a large jump in the number of voluntary enlistments for the longer period of three years.

Officials asserted that this means that the need for monthly replacements has been decreased by approximately 7,000.

Exceeded Expectations
They said that out of 11,502 signing up for the service during the last week and a half of January, the number of volunteers exceeded expectations. The total was estimated at slightly over 35,000.

At present there are approximately 1,200,000 officers and enlisted men in the army. By July this strength is scheduled to be down to 1,070,000—400,000 in the air forces and 670,000 in the ground forces.

This strength, coupled with that of what the army terms "no semblance of an effective national guard or organized reserve corps" is viewed by the war department as being "inadequate to meet any crisis."

FRESH BLIZZARDS ADD TO DISTRESS IN GREAT BRITAIN

met that the report at the end of the week was likely to show a big decrease, rather than alleviation of the critical coal situation.

Blame Severe Winter

The severe wintry weather was blamed for the lack of improvement in the situation. Meanwhile, the fresh blizzards ravaged many parts of Britain and estimates were that the paralyzing electric shutdown would leave as many as 6 million persons unemployed in industry and business by the end of the week.

The government curtailment of power went into effect yesterday. It called originally for the halt of electricity to all industries except essential and a five-hour shutdown of power for home consumption.

Within the first 24 hours, as many as two million persons were rendered idle, and at least half the country's industries closed.

Attlee's cabinet considered various expedients to help temporarily overcome difficulties, particularly in the transportation of vitally-needed fuel supplies.

Emergency Measures Considered
Among the emergency measures given thought were:

- 1—Use of flamethrowers to cut a way through snowdrifts;
- 2—Employment of tanks, caterpillar trucks and amphibious trucks to haul coal over the snow;
- 3—Use of naval escort vessels to assist coal barges negotiate coastal waters and rivers through the snow and ice;
- 4—To make use of submarines as floating power stations moored beside generating plants.

All such schemes were referred to a technical committee of experts for final decision.

Informants said Shinwell told the cabinet that not one coal ship was able to leave port since yesterday and that production in the northeast may be compelled to cease entirely tomorrow.

That was one of the regions buffeted by severe blizzards again this morning.

New Freeze-Up Develops
Britain suffered new damaging body blows in its fight to lick the coal crisis, when virtually the entire country was gripped by a new freeze-up.

Blizzards swept the vital industrial north and northeast, and other heavy snowstorms approached the southeast to further paralyze mining and transportation of vitally-needed coal.

Some morning papers continued to estimate Fuel Minister Emanuel Shinwell for failing to ward off production and for the ignominious debacle of socialist planning in regard to the coal supply.

With half the nation's factories crippled temporarily and every home denied electricity for five hours daily, Britons looked bleakly upon last night's official warnings that the coal situation may be acute for another year and that the government is considering "further restrictions."

Political Situation Tense
In the face of this, the worst industrial crisis since the 1926 general strike, political attention swung to Yorkshire. There the normanton by-election was expected to provide a barometer of the labor government's popularity following the drastic curbs on heat, power, transportation and recreational facilities.

Normanton, in Yorkshire lies 10 miles southeast of Leeds which is considered the "capital" of an highly-important industrial district lying to the south and west. North of Leeds, the region is mostly agricultural.

There were forecasts that the present political battle probably will continue at a high level for the next few weeks, though the final clash may be delayed for months.

Last night, former Prime Minister Winston Churchill, who had been a vocal socialist, which he said was to blame for the current crisis—and declared it would be "a merciful deliverance" if labor government is swept from power.

The conservative leader added in the commons debate, however, that he would reserve a vote of censure "for another day."

rier that will become increasingly formidable as the southern winter advances.

The surface of this great sheet broke as it was attacked by the ice-breakers. Giant slabs of ice were hurled on top of one another and immediately froze together in crazy patterns.

Snow covering the ice sheet clung to the slabs as they were heaved aside, and water tossed up by the boats froze instantly to the disordered mass.

Crashing Through
The thinnest coating of the Ross barrier was enough to make past expeditions race for the open water to the north. But today the two most destructive icebreakers ever constructed were crashing without trouble through a barrier that was well on its way to becoming formidable.

These two vessels will have their real trial at the end of this month when they return through the barrier once again to evacuate the party still at Little America.

Music Teacher Murder Told By 16-Year-Old Boy

Confesses He Shot And Killed Instructor While He Sat In Parked Auto
PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 11.—(INS)—A 16-year-old boy was quoted by authorities today as having confessed he shot and killed Ralph Porritt, 48, a Vancouver, Wash., music teacher, "while I was just fooling around the woods with my rifle."

The youth, Albert Jack Green, was arrested at his home at Lake Grove near the isolated road where Porritt, father of four children, was slain last Friday as he sat in his parked automobile.

Deputy Sheriff R. H. Bush announced young Green had confessed and quoted him as relating: "I saw a man asleep in a car while I was in the woods with my rifle. My first shot got him through the window. It broke the glass and the man said, 'My God, man, what are you doing there?'"

The youth said he opened the car door and "shot four more times." Then he dragged Porritt's body out and took $12 from the man's pockets. He said, according to Sheriff Bush, that robbery was his motive.

Deputy Bush said Green was withdrawn February 4 from Portland's Lincoln High school "because he couldn't get along in school or with his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Green, who adopted him when he was five."

Porritt's body was found late Friday sorrowed beside his car. He had been shot five times in the back of the head and neck with 22 caliber bullets. His empty wallet and a wrist watch were found nearby.

Malice Toward None

There is abundant evidence that in the years just past the American people have turned more and more often to the words of Abraham Lincoln for inspiration and guidance. After more than eighty years, his memory still is green. A plain man of the people, he has none of the Olympian remoteness of many heroic figures.

Great leadership is more than mortal. The truths of human experience do not die. Wisdom belongs to the ages. And for that reason the words that Lincoln spoke have endured. Almost it seems as though he were speaking of the problems of 1947 when, in his Second Inaugural, he laid a course for the nation.

"With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive to finish the work we are in; to bind up the nation's wounds; to care for him who has borne the battle and for his widow and his orphan—to do all which may achieve a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations."

With malice toward none, and firmness in the right, America may win the peace as it won the war, bringing liberty and justice not alone to the people of this land, but to all the world.

Not So Sinister

It is impossible not to agree with Representative Mundt of South Dakota that the United States has been lax in taking security measures in the past and that it would be a good idea to think about what privileges are extended to the curious representatives of the Soviet Union. But it is difficult to become as perturbed as the South Dakota solon seems to be over the fact that the Russians possess detailed plans of many American industrial, transportation and utility installations.

As the Congressman himself admits, the Russians obtained this information quite legitimately. The United States made no objection when Soviet agents visited the plants in question, photographed and sketched them. In a number of instances, in fact, they were supplied freely with detailed engineering data.

For that matter, the Soviet government has made no secret of its possession of this information. It is all contained in a huge book entitled "American Construction" published last year by the Russian Amtorg Trading Corporation. Among other things, the book contains 175 full-page advertisements purchased by American business firms, many of which are interested in selling equipment to Russia. Moscow probably would buy if she could obtain a loan from Washington to pay for the purchases.

It seems a shortsighted policy to let Russia know so much about American industrial achievements. But whatever other accusations may be made fairly against the Russians, this can hardly be put down as one of their more sinister activities.

E Bond Sales

January sales of E series "war bonds" exceeded cash-ins, the Treasury reports, thus reversing a situation that prevailed for eleven months last year. Moreover, the margin of $192,000,000 was more than twice as wide as it was in January, 1946, the last prior month with a favorable balance.

From the standpoint of Treasury officials this development is good news. The shift will help in handling the government's financial problem even though E bonds are not a very important item. It is good news from the standpoint of the public as well, if it means that the trend toward cashing in E bonds has run its course. It implies that more people were in a position to save in January than at any time in the last twelve months.

E bonds sales offer one means of measuring purchasing power. When cash-ins exceed sales, it may be inferred that buyers are using savings for things they need. When sales are greater than cash-ins, the additional savings are not competing for scarce goods and are available for future buying. It is a favorable sign when Americans can save money despite present high prices.

It is not yet certain, though, that the change in the situation is permanent. January of 1947 may prove an exception to the rule as January of 1946 did. More reliable information on which to base a judgment will be available when the February figures are released.

Vacation Business

The winter vacation business, although it has tapered off somewhat, is still high by past standards. The 1947 summer vacation business also may show something of a decline compared with last year, an improvement compared to the war years.

Before Pearl Harbor, Americans spent $5,000,000,000 or $6,000,000,000 a year on vacationing, 90 per cent of it within the United States. If prices remain high and no slump sets in, vacation business may reach $10,000,000,000 in the years ahead.

In several American states, as in Switzerland and Bermuda, the leading business is catering to tourists. In California, where this is by no means the biggest business of the state, tourists nevertheless spend half a billion dollars a year. Formerly Mexico received fewer visitors from the United States than did Canada, but travel to Mexico is expanding rapidly.

With the winter vacation idea spreading, tourist homes in some states are filled every night for many months of the year. Interstate touring has now become so important a source of revenue that nearly all states are competing for it by advertising and engaging in other publicity activities.

WHAT THIS COUNTRY NEEDS

IS A GOOD FIVE-CENT INSULT

As Feb. 14 gallops down upon us we are reminded of the "comic" Valentines of our childhood. Ah, those were real Valentines—ones with a purpose and a mission in life to perform.

They were called "penny dreadfuls" but the really ferocious ones set you back a nickel—and they were worth it.

Those Valentines took the skin off the recipient with all the gentle ness of a starving boy peeling a banana.

They consisted of nightmarish caricatures and a bit of verse with just enough truth in it to throw the addressee into a flaming fury. They were unsigned but even if the receiver guessed who his pen pal was he could never prove it.

The joy of watching teacher come to a quick boil as she read her Valentine mail was well worth having the whole class made to stay after school.

The tightwad, the grouchy, the loafer and the dude spent Feb. 14 wishing they were somebody else.

Comic Valentines gave the sender a chance to let off steam. Today, we're so soft we leave all really first-class insulting up to the radio comedians and they, unfortunately, concentrate their invective against each other.

WASHINGTON CALLING

World Is Watching U. S. Tariff Action

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—In the matter of cooperation between Republicans in Congress and Democrats in the executive office, you can chalk up a score on the positive side.

From Capitol Hill came Senator Vandenberg of Michigan and Senator Milliken of Colorado. They met with Secretary of State Marshall and Under Secretaries Acheson and Clayton. What they have come out with is a reasonable compromise on tariff reductions under the reciprocal trade program.

Acheson and Clayton did their best to meet the objections of tariff-minded Republicans. In the future, full publicity will be given to the reasons behind tariff reductions. This is to meet the objection that schedules are to be reduced by some kind of secret hocus-pocus.

Can Carry Appeal

An industry or a trade union or any other group claiming to have suffered as a result of lowered tariffs can carry an appeal direct to the tariff commission. The commission will head all the facts to determine whether the complaint is justified. If it is really justified, then remedial action will follow.

There are a number of other provisions in the compromise agreed to. They add up to the kind of common sense that should make it possible for us to go to the Geneva trade conference in April and say something like this to the other nations: "Yes, we intend to continue our reciprocal trade program. We will grant tariff reductions when it can be shown that our trade will benefit by those reductions."

Vandenberg is likely to have a tough time getting such a program approved. McKinley Republicans are talking as though the world had not changed since 1888. They would like to stymie the whole program with an "investigation." That is why Vandenberg is staying home instead of attending the Moscow conference.

Chances Are Good

But the chances for success are good. In spite of the threats of the Knutson wing, the party at this point hardly dares to move back into the horse-and-buggy age with quite such an abandoned whoop.

Even when this compromise is approved, there will be plenty of room for doubt. Doubt number one is whether it goes far enough, that is to say, whether it will permit our bargaining delegation at the conference in Switzerland to push trade barriers down far enough.

Partly, this question turns around the condition of Great Britain today. We in America seem reluctant to face up to the facts. Britain is living on the oxygen of the loans from Canada and the United States, like a man who has been desperately ill and is now in the first dubious stages of convalescence.

Labor members of Parliament visiting Washington in recent weeks have been emphatic in warning that this country would have to go much further than it had ever gone before in scaling down the tariff wall. If that does not happen, then Britain will be compelled to turn to preferential trading.

Watching Closely

The left wing of the Labor party is watching closely to see whether cooperation with the United States is likely to offer a way out. They have been quiet lately. But if they see trouble ahead, they are certain to turn on Foreign Minister Bevin again.

Doubt number two concerns the long-range intentions of the Republican party. If Vandenberg and Milliken can bring the back-sliders around to their point of view, the program will be okay for this year. Tariff reductions mutually agreed to between nations last for three years.

But next year the reciprocal trade act expires. The test will come on whether it is to be continued, or whether it will be sabotaged with crippling amendments.

The hope is, of course, that action this year will commit the party for the future. But the diehards will still be in office and many of them have important committee assignments. Chairman Harold Knutson of the House Ways and Means committee can do a lot of mischief with the hearings he has called for the end of this month.

But beyond 1947 is 1948. A great many people have been educated to the meaning of the reciprocal program. They know that economic isolationism means political isolationism and that isolation spells disaster. They will be watching to see which way the GOP intends to move. As leaders like Vandenberg know, it is hard for a party to move backward when that party is claiming the right to the future.

Moscow admits a housing shortage but so far no one has boasted that it is bigger and better than any produced in capitalist countries.

Because of the housing shortage Moscow has requested that small delegations be sent to the foreign ministers' conference... Vandenberg immediately said "O. K. . . I'll stay home."

However there is some suspicion that he had heard either about the Russian winters or the American Spring in an election year.

He had exercised the same free choice of travel as Hank Greenberg. The Greenberg case illustrates the fact that you can lead a Tiger to Pittsburgh but you can't make him play.

My wife and I wanted to go to a movie last night. So we looked through the advertisements and found the above quoted exclamations of perfection.

It was difficult to decide which of the superb productions to choose.

At least three claimed to be the best of the month. Two confessed to be the best of the year (they didn't say whether 1946 or 1947). One called itself the best of all time.

So, to make sure that we would not make a mistake, I looked up the original criticism of the picture we finally selected.

The criticism was brief. "It stinks," said the critic but we went anyway.

Don't think that we don't like the movies. We do, and we give full credit to the ingenuity, lavishness and showmanship of the Hollywood producers.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

BOOKS INFLUENCED LINCOLN'S LIFE

Some things which Abraham Lincoln wrote and spoke have become literary classics chiefly because of their clarity and simplicity. The following is alleged to have been told by Lincoln to a friend who had asked Lincoln how he had learned to write and speak so simply and clearly (See "Life of Lincoln," by Ida M. Tarbell):

"I never went to school more than six months in my life, but I can say this: that among my earliest recollection I remember how, when a mere child, I used to get irritated when anybody talked to me in a way I could not understand. I do not think I ever got so angry at anything else in my life; but that always disturbed my temper, and has ever since. I can remember going to my little bedroom, after hearing the neighbors talk of an evening with my father, and spending no small part of the night walking up and down and trying to make out what was the exact meaning of some of their, to me, dark sayings.

Could Not Sleep

"I could not sleep, although I tried to, when I got on such a hunt for an idea until I had caught it; and when I thought I had got it, I was not satisfied until I had repeated it over and over; until I had put it in language plain enough, as I thought, for any boy I know to comprehend. This was a kind of passion with me, and it has stuck by me; for I am never easy now, when I am handling a thought, till I have bounded it north and bounded it south, and bounded it east and bounded it west."

Lincoln also might well have given some credit to the gods he read aloud. They included the Bible, Robinson Crusoe, The Arabian Nights, Pilgrim's progress and Asop's Fables. These are the best books, even today. Herndon, who was Lincoln's law partner, says Lincoln, even when a young lawyer, used to read aloud a great deal, and sometimes to the annoyance of others working near him.

In a letter to A. J. Conant, Abraham Lincoln writes of another book which, no doubt, was partially responsible for his entering law, even for his rising to the presidency.

"One day a man who was migrating to the West drove up in front of my store with a wagon which contained his family and household plunder. He asked me if I would buy an old barrel for which he had no room in his wagon, and which contained nothing of special value. I did not want it, but to oblige him I bought it, and paid him half a dollar for it. Without further examination I put it away in the store and forgot all about it. Some time after, in overhauling things, I came upon the barrel and, emptying it out, found to my surprise that it contained, I found at the bottom of the rubbish a complete edition of Blackstone's 'Commentaries.'"

"I began to read these famous works, and I had plenty of time, for during the long summer days, when the farmers were busy with their crops, my customers were few and far between. The more I read the more intensely interested I became. Never in my whole life was my mind so thoroughly absorbed. I read until I devoured them."

A selected list of books from which to read to the baby and young child may be had in a stamped envelope; in like manner another list of books which have stood the test of time, for the child from six or seven to twelve. Just write me at 235 East 45th street, New York, N. Y.

The World and the Mud Puddles

THOSE BIG PROFITS

A day or so after reading the Nathan CIO report on the enormous profits being enjoyed by American industry, one of my friends ran into a stock broker at lunch. "Aunt Minnie's husband had recently died was explained to the broker and she wanted to invest the proceeds of a seventy-five hundred dollar insurance policy in something that would assure her a reasonable income. If he could suggest something that would pay five or six per cent Aunt Minnie would be only too glad to buy."

The broker grinned like the villain in the melodrama. If he had any cinches like that, he said, he wouldn't be selling them; he would buy them himself. But my friend insisted that there must still be a few old reliables, that pay more interest than government bonds. "For speculation, yes—maybe," he said, "for investment, as in the case of your aging aunt, no." He took it that Aunt Minnie didn't want to speculate—she couldn't afford it— which was right.

The broker explained that he was not supposed to recommend stocks or bonds, but only to act as a purchasing agent. The best he could do, he said, was to furnish a factual report, which he did in the form of a sort of catalogue setting forth the status of the hundreds of corporations whose securities are listed on the Exchange. "Look 'em over," he suggested. "If you find any there that is on a sound basis and paying that five or six per cent up Aunt Minnie's ears, call me up and I'll go halves on the deal."

My friend took his almanac and put it in his pocket and prepared for a couple of nights' study.

"It seems," he suggested, as he was leaving, "that you haven't read the Nathan report on the big profits of our American corporations."

"Nathan," he snorted. "What you've got there isn't Nathan anybody else, but the SEC, the Securities Exchange Commission. If that's wrong, sue me."

Funds For Airport Building Under Controversy No General 'Back To Farm' Movement, Despite Pay Ex-Roosevelt Cabinet Members In Controversy

(Special To Central Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—A behind-the-scenes battle is underway in Washington over the question of whether to use federal funds for the construction of big or little airports.

The Civil Aeronautics Authority has held out for earmarking money to build many small airports to encourage private flying. Arrayed against CAA are major airlines and metropolitan area authorities who think congestions should be alleviated at major terminals.

Thus far CAA has given way to its opponents. At first, the agency was willing to chip in 50 per cent of the cost for projects up to $2,000,000. Now it has raised the figure to five million.

However, the smaller airports still will get some of the CAA melon. About 800 little airports will receive more than three-fourths of the 45 million dollars CAA will spend this year.

The Agriculture department says there is no general "back to the farm" movement in sight yet, despite the high level of farm wages. There are seven per cent more workers on farms now than a year ago, but the increase is attributed to exceptionally favorable weather which permits farms to catch up on repair work.

In reporting no "back to the farm" movement, the Agriculture Department points out that the number of persons engaged in farming has declined steadily in the past 40 years.

There were 12 million farmers in 1914, but the total dropped to 8,300,000 by 1939 and, this year, it's down to 8,272,000. Wages on farms are about three times as high as in pre-war years. The national average pay for farm workers is $94.80 a month.

New pressure is developing in the Senate to break the re-examining/act telescoping 33 committees to 15.

Trouble is that some senators are finding that their limitation to two committees is keeping their hands out of legislation in which their states are interested.

New York and Pennsylvania, for instance, have a wide range of legislative interests in which their senators would like to take a more active part.

Even Wyoming has its troubles. Senator Edward V. Robertson (R) of Wyoming is not a member of the Agriculture committee, yet his state is vitally interested in wool.

Robertson expected to have no trouble in getting the Senate's special Wool Committee extended. But Senator George Aiken (R) of Vermont exacted a pledge from party leaders that affected standing committees will have veto power over creation of special committees.

The Agriculture committee is certain to insist on handling wool. Senator Millard Tydings (D) of Maryland suggested a solution. He urged that an especially interested senator be made an ex-officio member of any standing committee's subcommittee handling matters in which he has a direct interest.

Two members of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's cabinet are in the midst of a controversy over whether they "walked off" with government records when they left office.

Former Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau has been asked by present Treasury Chief John Snyder to return certain documents which Morgenthau reportedly has placed in his "diary." Morgenthau is "thinking it over."

Harold L. Ickes, Mr. Roosevelt's secretary of the interior, also jumped into the controversy. Ickes issued a blast at an "unidentified source" which he said accused him of taking 50 filing cases of data when he left office.

Good bye—watch for the Morgenthau and Ickes document "cases" to make news in the weeks ahead.

Another phase of the most disastrous war in history came to end in Paris Monday with the signing of five peace treaties.

But—

And the but was just the word for it. Because there were reservations and restrictions and stipulations and conditions that made it clearly apparent it takes more than paper and ink to cure the ills of a restless world.

The fact that treaties were drafted at all is a tribute to the superhuman efforts of the Big Four council of foreign ministers and of the Paris peace conference as a whole.

Yet neither victor nor vanquished is satisfied by any means. The situation was summed up neatly but ominously by a spokesman for Italian Foreign Minister Count Carlo Sforza in Rome.

He said in effect that the treaty drawn up for

Durant's Counsel Makes Charges In Washington Trial

Accuses Prosecution Of Attempting To Prejudice Court By Disclosing Confidential Matters

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(INS)—Counsel for Col. Jack W. Durant, alleged "master mind" in the Heslan crown jewel theft, today accused the prosecution of attempting to prejudice the court by disclosing confidential matters.

Maj. Joseph Bryan, chief counsel for Durant, made the assertion after two defense attempts to delay the court martial had failed.

Bryan declared that the prosecution acted improperly in releasing to the press newspaper accounts of discovery of a cache of the royal gems on a Virginia roadside.

Delay Is Asked
The court rejected defense requests for delay on the ground that Durant's counsel had not been given an opportunity to confer with witnesses and that the colonel was suffering from a foot ailment which necessitated medical attention.

Maj. Joseph S. Robinson, trial judge advocate, accused the defense of attempting "stalling" tactics in an effort to delay testimony of Mrs. Martha L. Evans, former United States employee and once Durant's secretary.

The 37-year-old colonel arrived in Washington by air yesterday from Frankfurt, Germany. The court martial was moved temporarily to the United States to permit interrogation of American witnesses.

WAY CLEARED FOR PROBE OF TRUMAN ADMINISTRATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(INS)—The way was cleared Monday for a Republican investigation of the Truman administration and the "New Deal."

The House adopted by voice vote a resolution granting the committee on executive expenditures authority to subpoena witnesses and records and hold hearings anywhere in the United States.

The resolution authorizes the committee, of which Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.) is chairman, to hold its hearings while the House is in session and after Congress has adjourned. House Republican leaders have designated the committee as the prime investigating body in matters pertaining to executive departments. Its first investigation may be directed at the State department.

Man Confesses To Series Of Crimes In Butler County

Paul Vild, 31, Of Buffalo Junction, Tells State Police Of His Crimes

BUTLER, Pa., Feb. 11.—(INS)—State police today said that an alleged pyromaniac had confessed a series of fires, wrecking of two freight trains and the attempted derailment of a third.

Cpl. J. J. Henrich said the suspect was Paul Vild, 31, of Buffalo Junction. Vild told police the derailments were committed on nights there was a full moon.

Vild's alleged "lunar crimes" started with a series of fires in 1938 and caused damages totaling more than $100,000. Vild, Henrich reported, signed statements admitting he wrecked two Pennsylvania railroad trains in Buffalo township January 9 and 26, 1947.

Henrich said Vild threw switches under the two trains which were standing still, causing derailment of both. The attempt at wrecking the third train was made July 9, 1946 by throwing a splice bar in a switch "frog."

A study shows that nine per cent of the nation's color-blind are men.

Jewel Thieves Get $128,000 Loot In Miami Beach

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 11.—(INS)—Miami Beach police are hunting bold jewel thieves who broke into the Dillido Island winter home of Leon Lowenstein, wealthy textile manufacturer, late Sunday and took gems valued at $128,000.

Lowenstein told detectives that the jewels were missing when he and his wife returned to their home after being away for several hours. The servants had been given the afternoon off. A $30,000 pair of earrings was overlooked in the robbery.

Lowenstein found a cut screen and a broken pane of glass in a French door. The thieves had ransacked all the upstairs bedrooms. Detectives said the intruders had broken the lock on a closet in the master bedroom and pried open a jewel box.

The chief item listed as stolen was a 110 and 664-100ths carat diamond bracelet valued at $80,000. Lowenstein said the gems were insured.

Lowenstein told police his wife had worn the jewels Saturday night to a fashionable Miami Beach night club.

Supreme Court Hands Down Two Vital Decisions

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(INS)—The Supreme Court handed down two important decisions Monday upholding provisions of the Hatch "clean politics" act.

The first ruling sustained sections of the act which prohibit political activity by federal workers.

The second ruling bans political activity by state officials who administer federal funds.

In ruling on application of the Hatch act to all federal workers, the high court sustained a decision of a three-judge District of Columbia federal court holding the statute valid.

The law, as it applies to state officials, was challenged by the State of Oklahoma as a federal infringement on state sovereignty.

Oklahoma appealed to the high tribunal from lower court decisions sustaining a civil service commission order directing that federal highway funds be withheld from the state in view of the governor's refusal to oust State Highway Commissioner Francis Paris.

Paris was found by the commission to have held office as chairman of the Oklahoma Democratic Central committee while serving as highway commissioner.

Leslie accused the police inspector of exonerating the alleged numbers writers before the June grand jury after implicating them at a police court hearing.

Recognizing Guild Was Grave Mistake Declares Publisher

Former Philadelphia Publisher Testifies Before House Labor Committee

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(INS)—J. David Stern, former publisher of the Philadelphia Record, today testified before the House subcommittee on the CIO Newspaper Guild, a "cancerous growth that jeopardizes the American free press."

Stern, who is his Philadelphia and Camden, N. J., newspapers following a prolonged guild strike, told the house labor committee that he made "a grave mistake in recognizing the guild."

"I have done more to harm the position of the working newspaper man than to benefit him. I have put him in the straight jacket of a sinister pressure group."

"I now publicly admit that I have made a grave mistake in recognizing the guild."

The ex-publisher asserted that "no editor or creator of opinion on any newspaper, magazine or radio should be compelled to belong to any organization, whether trade union or any other."

He said in this way congress can protect freedom of the press, adding: "They should have the privilege of belonging to any organization but never be subjected to the discipline of any pressure group."

Stern testified before the house labor group following the appearance of witnesses from the Newspaper Guild. He said that the charge by Sam B. Eubanks, executive vice president of the American Newspaper Guild, that Stern provoked the Philadelphia guild strike was "a childish and obvious lie."

Both Mrs. Harper, who was introduced by Mr. Audia, and Mr. Lewis, who was introduced by Miss Mack, spoke on the purposes and aims of the organization and pointed out postwar problems facing the profession.

Sunday morning, one of the nurses coming off duty to the home observed flames seething in the basement, believed to be from an overheated furnace. The nurse gave the alarm to the nurses in the home and called the fire department.

Myrtle, one of the nurses to get the alarm, soon got busy and threw her spare clothes out one of the windows and carried a portable sewing machine. The clothes were marred by the water and dirt around the home left by the fire department in putting out the fire. Fortunately no one was hurt. Jewish Organizations Help In SOS Campaign

Are Collecting Food And Clothing Here To Be Sent To Helpless Deportees In Europe

In conjunction with many other agencies over the state and nation, the various Jewish organizations of New Castle have joined in support of the United Jewish Appeal for aid to the "Supplies for Overseas Survivors". Mrs. M. Rosenberg has been designated as the collection head here and all food and clothing donated will be collected by the Jewish War Veterans.

Recently Mrs. David M. Levy, chairman of the National Women's Division of the United Jewish Appeal visited Europe and saw at first hand the devastation and suffering, particularly among the children. She saw and talked to the deportees in France, Belgium and Holland, and saw for herself the terrible suffering among the children.

There is not enough of anything in those countries she said. Candles, needles and thread, food, clothing, they are short of everything, Mrs. Levy declared.

The Jewish organizations in New Castle are collecting canned goods of all kinds, coffee, condensed milk, children's clothes and underwear, blankets, baby dresses and baby soap. A call to Mrs. M. Rosenberg, at 3350, will bring all information necessary to aid in a worthy cause.

Man Is Badly Injured By Bull

NEWARK, O., Feb. 11.—(INS)—A Licking county farmer was in Newark city hospital today because a bull he was feeding decided to get playful.

Eugene Montgomery, who lives on route 16, four miles east of Newark, suffered four fractured ribs, bruises, an almost-severed left ear, a frozen right hand and exposure.

Montgomery was feeding his bull when the animal started to butt him with his nose and pushed him. The farmer fell and was rolled and pushed around the ground before his family came to his rescue almost an hour later. The frozen ground prevented Montgomery from getting up and regaining control of the situation.

Allis Chalmers Long Strike May Soon Be Ended

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 11.—(INS)—Orders from President Philip Murray of the Congress of Industrial Organizations that may end the bloody, nine-months strike of workers at the Allis Chalmers plant in West Allis, Wis., today were believed to have been handed United Auto Workers officials.

Murray met for four hours yesterday with UAW President Walter P. Reuther and Secretary-Treasurer George Addes.

No statement as to the conference was made public. However, it was understood by sources close to the trio that Murray had ordered the UAW to quit using the West Allis strike for "political purposes," and for Reuther to end his feud with Vice President R. J. Thomas, alleged left wing leader of the UAW.

Reuther, it was said, has favored settlement of the strike, but the Thomas-controlled UAW executive board repudiated him.

There have been frequent riots and other "incidents" in the drawn-out strike.

Governor Battle In Georgia Brings Many Court Suits

McDONOUGH, Ga., Feb. 11.—(INS)—A legal battle for control of Georgia's executive fund gets under way today in the Henry county court house at McDonough, while a decision is due tomorrow on the case challenging legality of Herman Talmadge's election by the general assembly.

Both Talmadge and Lieut. Gov. M. E. Thompson are defendants in the money trial. The plaintiff is the Fulton National Bank of Atlanta, where the money for executive use is deposited.

The case will be heard by Judge Bond Almand, of the Fulton Superior court.

In another financial test case last week, Judge Almand ordered State Treasurer George Hamilton to honor checks signed by Charles Redwine, Talmadge appointee as revenue commissioner.

Judge Walter Hendrix, also of the Fulton Superior court, who heard testimony in the Thompson vs. Talmadge case, recessed his court until tomorrow, at which time, he said he will announce his decision.

This case seeks declaratory judgment as to the right of the general assembly to elect Herman Talmadge governor on the night of Jan. 14-15, Herman's father, Eugene Talmadge, had died while Governor-elect, thus touching off the present controversy.

Army Troops Not Available For All Local Celebrations

General M. S. Eddy Advises Local Army Advisory Committee Of Present Situation

Requests for participation of army personnel and units in local celebrations has grown to such an extent, that it is impossible for the Second Army, which includes seven states in the eastern section of the country, to fill these engagements. Major General M. S. Eddy, of Baltimore, Deputy Commander, announces.

In addition to the fact that more requests are received than can be filled, the local Army Advisory Committee, is advised by General Eddy, there is also a heavy demand on the Second Army for overseas replacement personnel, and the army is faced with the necessity of seeing that newcomers receive the maximum amount of training to indoctrinate them for service. Due to the fact that the number of men available is now at a minimum, it makes it impossible to fill most of these engagements.

Requests, however, will be given careful consideration, General Eddy states, and whenever possible, the Second Army will continue to make personnel available.

Caldwell Takes Davis On Green Bench Tour In St. Petersburg, Fla.

(By JAMES P. CALDWELL)
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 8.—Mr. and Mrs. Ivor Davis of New Castle gave St. Pete the once over one day last week. Accompanying them were Mr. Davis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Davis of Lakeland, Fla. The latter migrated from New Castle a number of years ago and settled at Lakeland, so Ivor could have a place to sleep when he came south. Arriving here, Ivor left his parents and Mrs. Davis at Williams' Park, where a speaker was trying to work an audience up toward a good collection, and then came down to my hotel. He said that he had read my stories of the green benches, but thought maybe I belonged to the Ananias club. I assured him that it would be impossible for me to pay the dues in such a distinguished body, but I would gladly chaperone him on a tour of the green benches.

What Ivor Saw
We started out on Central avenue. As far as the eye could telescope, the benches were groaning. It was the usual lineup. Men and women past middle age. An average of six women to every man. Some of the men thinking about the hereafter; most of the women intent on what they were here after. Men in summer togs, straw hats and sun baked bald heads.

Women in breezy gowns, frescoed faces, lips, eyebrows, to say nothing of waves. After we had sized up a half dozen blocks, Ivor paused, and in a shaking voice apologized for ever suspecting me of having overdressed the picture. "You haven't told the half of it," he wailed. On a side street we came across a tall, thin man, who looked like a dressed up bankroll. This is the kind the husband hunters spot. Three women, all past 50, surrounded him, giggling, and trying to act like sweet 16. Ivor watched their antics a few minutes, then exclaimed, "I've had enough. Take me away from here!"

The Mutual Friend
We went to the hotel of a mutual friend, who prefers to have his name withheld, since he is making a scientific study of a good place to eat. Ivor and the man held quite a confab about some fellow they called B. Flat. Never having met the gentleman, I remained discreetly quiet. It's the best thing to do when folks discuss something you don't know anything about. Going back to the park, we found Mrs. Davis and Ivor's parents worrying. Iest Ivor had tripped on the green benches. They left for Lakeland at once. Ivor and Mrs. Davis will continue their explorations in Florida. Mr. and Mrs. Davis returned here Saturday afternoon after having visited in Miami. There they met Mrs. Fred Rentz, Mrs. Ella Nolan and Mrs. O. N. Fischer. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Flaherty at their residence in Miami.

They may take home a live alligator to hitch to the safe in Ivor's office, so the robbers can't wheel it out again.

Arrive In Darkness
Mr. and Mrs. Harold Good arrived in St. Pete at 10 o'clock at night, with no place to sleep. They knocked at the doors of a dozen hotels, but were greeted with the same song, "Full Up". Then at the 13th hotel, a landlord who had no rooms of his own, volunteered to telephone around. After calling some 20 hotels, he finally located a room at a rather swanky hotel, where the guests are rather disposed to try to put on the dog.

At least Harold thought so the next morning when he shelled out $12 for the night's lodging. Naturally he felt a little like barking, as he and Mrs. Good went out to prospect for breakfast. They found another room during the forenoon, and celebrated the event in the afternoon by taking a swim in the Gulf of Mexico.

Buys Turpentine Grove
On the way down they had passed through Walterboro, S. C., a short distance when they saw a native tacking up a "For Sale" sign on a vacant house. Harold's real estate instinct sprang into action and he reigned in his auto. "What's the size of this property, and what do you want for it?" he asked. "Waal, stranger, I kalkerlate the'n's high onto 12 acres, and she's covered right smart with tolerably good pine timber. I kalkerlate she's worth $2500."

"Well," said Harold, "the house needs a trip to the beauty parlor, and the timber isn't bringing you anything."

"Yes, but them trees are chuck full o' turpentine, and folks say as

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

how it is good for rheumatics," he replied, "and besides, you can sell the trees for lumber."

Deal Is Made
The rheumatism argument a hit with Harold. Some time he might get those thrilling aches and pains, and with that timber, he's supplied with home grown turpentine.

He talked the owner down to accepting $2200 for the place and gave him a payment, pending title examination. Then he went back into Walterboro to spend a night dreaming over his purchase.

Next morning the man who had painted the sign came to see him and offered him $2500 for the property. But Harold thought he had made a good deal and refused to sell. Meanwhile, he will investigate the possibilities of turpentine as a relief for rheumatism.

Trio Touring Towns
A trio of New Castle women, Miss Bessie Durant, Mrs. Charlotte Conner and Mrs. Patterson, the latter of Crawford avenue, breezed into St. Pete on a sight seeing tour of Florida recently. They tried a few "its" on the green benches, drank gallons of orange juice, and after several days of hilarious enjoyment, left for the Bok tower. They had no designs on the tower; further to make sure that it was standing straight. After exploring the eastern coast, as far south as Miami, they backtracked, by way of St. Augustine, where they visited the Fountain of Youth and other interesting points, including the oldest school house in the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Houk, who have sold their property on North Jefferson street and bought another on Wilmington avenue, spent ten days here with Mrs. Houk's brother, James G. Clements. They left here for New York and other eastern points.

Cars Come By Auto

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Carr are back on the green benches. They complain that some of the New Castle people, Attorney and Mrs. George T. Weingartner and Mr. and Mrs. Reece Lewis, are not here this year to help them do the sitting.

Attorney and Mrs. Glenn Berry stopped off here for several days on a tour of Florida. I did not get to see them. Don't know why they were in hiding.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Allen of Wallace avenue are among the late arrivals. They have an apartment with Mr. Allen's father, H. L. Allen. Mrs. Allen's mother, Mrs. Elsie Nessie, is happy to see them. Richard and Mrs. Allen are spending most of their time fishing. Trout fishing hasn't been very good on account of the water being too warm.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Young, the former a member of the Citizens' bank staff for many years, are here in the hope that it will benefit Mr. Young's health. He is enjoying the sunshine and believes that it is helping him.

Other New Castleites

Among other New Castleites who have arrived here since my last letter are Mrs. Gertrude Sullivan, Mrs. Mayne Dupuy, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Lindsey, Miss Martha Dinsmore, Also, W. K. Lampus and Miss Bertha Lampus of Enon. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Hoffman and two children. Fred Kay, former New Castle plumber, is building a house at Gulfport, a suburb of St. Petersburg.

Among recent social events was a bridge party given by Mrs. Edith Mott of New Castle at the Central hotel. Among others present were Mrs. Lenora Urey Thompson, Mrs. Caroline Riddle Rand and Mrs. Elizabeth Caldwell.

At a cafeteria up at Clearwater the other day I met William Offutt of Butler, former New Castle merchant. As we had both eaten heavily, we weren't able to do much talking, so I didn't find out anything.

Tourists have been coming in by the hundreds every day and are having a hard time finding accommodations. Some have slept in the station, in their autos and police headquarters over night. The best way for those without rooms in advance is to get here during the forenoon.

This and That

Sorry I wasn't home to help celebrate groundhog day. I missed the mayor's proclamation in The News, but was gratified to find that Richard Rentz did not forget the groundhog in his "Meseeall" column. There are no groundhogs down here except those who come in from the north. Most of them are considerably shovelled. The four-legged groundhogs keep out of Florida, as they are liable to be smothered when they try to burrow in the sand.

This is a great roosting place for Rotarians. At the last luncheon there were 376 tourists and 112 local members present. Rotarians seem to be good for something. They can travel.

Over 400 girls are enrolled here in what is called a "Charm" school. They are taught how to stand, walk and do up their hair. Meanwhile mother doctors her corns.

Lo, the Poor Orange

During the war Uncle Sam bought the orange crop on the trees. All the growers had to do was to buckle straps on their bank rolls. Now they must buckle straps on their stomachs, since Uncle Sam has lost his appetite for orange juice. Citrus growers are losing heavily, although the canneries are helping them out some. Roadside stands are selling oranges at less than a dollar a bushel, but you can buy them as cheap in New Castle as you can out of the stores here.

Citrus growers have hired a man at $1500 a month to tell them how to sell oranges to foreign countries. Looks like an easy job. Lend those countries the money to buy the oranges.

Two little chimpanzees, born six weeks ago at a wild animal ranch, have already been taught to feed themselves with a spoon. One can't help but wonder why they are so much smarter than babies. Chimpanzees belong to the monkey family, which some folks call their ancestors. Most of us have met people who seem to have good grounds for their belief.

Receives Degree At Grove City

Jack Potter, 306 Winter avenue, has completed studies at Grove City college and exercises at the college recently received a degree in Business Administration. Mr. Potter was enrolled at Grove City at the time he entered service and after three years in service re-enrolled to complete his college course. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Orville Potter, 201 Hillcrest avenue.

Sees Symptom Of Decay In Western Civilization

By MARTHA KEARNEY
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The current epidemic of highly-publicized Mexican divorces and remarriages was characterized today by a prominent Catholic clergyman as a symptom of decay in western civilization.

Dr. Edgar Schmiedeler, director of the National Catholic Welfare Conference's family life bureau, further described them as a reflection of constantly mounting irresponsibility and selfishness in American life.

He added: "It seems a harsh thing to say, but western civilization in general is ill of the same disease that brought about the fall of France."

"Childlessness, a high divorce rate, promiscuity, juvenile delinquency—all signs of irresponsibility and selfishness—seem to be on the increase in practically all of the western countries with no relief in sight."

"It almost seems as if their increase were encouraged to weaken the western nations."

Growing Worse
Father Schmiedeler noted that the situation has been growing progressively worse "for quite some decades now" with both world wars contributing materially to the breakdown of family life.

He remarked: "It is quite usual on radio crime serials for someone to be killed every two minutes. Books and movies condone and popularize all forms of moral disintegration."

"It almost seems that every time someone in Hollywood is slipping he gets a divorce and gets a lot of publicity with it. The constant repetition of this sort of thing can't help but be harmful to the public at large and young people in particular."

"All of these things, as well as the recent crop of Mexican divorces and remarriages are symptoms of decay in our civilization."

Literature Class At State College Taught To Music

STATE COLLEGE, Feb. 11.—Students in English literature at the Pennsylvania State College are literally singing their way through college.

Dr. Mason Long conceived the idea in his classes, and he says the students love it. He thinks it's one of the first English literature courses ever taught to music.

"We've been fortunate, of course, in always having at least one pianist and several good singers in the class," Dr. Long, who doesn't profess to be a singer, explains.

Students often see in the ballad the basis for a current popular tune. Others are reminded of songs their grandmother or grandfather sang to them.

Love and death seem to have been the popular themes for many ballads, Dr. Long says. But he notes that the mother-in-law is another subject which has received extensive treatment in ballads.

While nearly every state has produced some ballads, Dr. Long finds that Pennsylvania has been the source of an unusually large number of them, some of which have not yet been collected.

Around Hollywood

By JOHN TODD

International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11.—(INS)—Just to show you how perverse Hollywood can be, Jane Ball has had to dye her blonde hair brown for her role in "Forever Amber."

That is because Linda Darnell, a very dark brunette, turned blonde for the title role of the picture.

Twentieth Century-Fox executives want a sharp contrast between the two beauties in their scenes together. Jane plays the only virtuous role in the picture, the wife of Lord Bruce Carlton, the gent "Amber" worshipped.

Jane can't wait for the picture to be finished in March so she can return to being a blonde. Linda can't wait either. She wants to be her natural brunette self again.

While on the subject of feminine tresses, Darryl Zanuck's office is a trifle upset over June Haver's new coiffure. June had her hair cut short so now it's a halo of ringlets. The only trouble is that June has been set for the feminine lead in "Scudda Hoo, Scudda Hay", and the girl in that wears pigtails. The hairdressing department will have to fix that up by attaching a pair to her head.

Chinese Young Woman To Speak At Westminster

NEW WILMINGTON, Feb. 11.—Westminster college chapter of the American Association of University Women will have Miss Grace Yang of China as its guest next Monday.

A full day's program is being arranged for the occasion.

Miss Yang, who is visiting this country under the sponsorship of the China Relief association, as a graduate of Mt. Holyoke college. She has participated in world-wide student conference and is the founder and principal of the Grace Yang School for Girls in Shanghai.

Miss Yang will speak at the morning and afternoon chapel exercises at the college and will address an open meeting sponsored by the AAUW at 8 p. m. in the college chapel.

A reception honoring Miss Yang will be held in Ferguson hall lounge following her evening lecture.

Antarctic Party To Seek Valuable Data On Light Rays

Brown University Astronomer May Discover Information To Aid Navigators

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 11.—(INS)—Everyone has lost his sense of direction at one time or another but no one is as bad off as the person who loses his way in the Polar regions.

At least that today is the opinion of Prof. Charles H. Smiley, Brown University astronomer. He is gathering data which may go far in helping navigators determine their routes.

The Finn Ronne Antarctic expedition, now en route to the South Polar area, has agreed to carry out a program of observations from latitude 22 degrees south into the Antarctic. The information will provide valuable data on atmospheric refraction of low altitudes.

Refraction is the bending of light rays as they pass from one medium to another. In this case, the straight path of the rays are changed by the earth's atmosphere. A similar phenomenon may be noted by placing a pencil in a glass of water.

Prof. Smiley and his party will cover the latitudes between Providence and Rio de Janeiro when he leads an expedition to Brazil in May to see the total solar eclipse. Scientists hope that in a year the observations can be extended north from Providence into the Arctic, thus covering all latitudes.

A navigator finds his location on the earth's surface by first sighting on the sun or stars. He then works out his position with mathematical tables. The tables work well in temperature zones where the sun is high in the sky. In the Polar regions the sun circles close to the horizon.

Refraction tables go astray and the navigators often become confused. Improvement of these tables is the aim of Prof. Smiley.

City-County Health Teachers Will Meet

Dinner Meeting And Program Will Bring Health Teachers Together Wednesday Evening

Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock in the Senior High school, teachers of health education and physical training departments of the New Castle public schools and the county schools will have a dinner meeting to be followed by a program of speaking and organization.

The meeting, which will be under the general supervision of Dr. G. K. Mills, superintendent of health education in the city, will attract 70 teachers of the city and county who have already sent in reservations for the dinner.

Numerous after dinner speakers will be presented on the program, among whom is Mrs. A. Thorban, of Pittsburgh, who will give a demonstration on posture training as it is being taught today in the schools of the country.

Following the program the teachers will organize as a group of health teachers in the city and county with other such meetings to follow in the future when the latest methods and ideas in health education will be broadened.

County

OTHER NEWS OF COURT HOUSE

By agreement between the county and U. A. Leivo, the selection of viewers to hear the case of Matthew Leivo and Sons against the county has been continued to March 18. This is a case in which the plaintiff company is suing the county for money said to be due upon a repair job on the West Washington street bridge.

Under the law of 1836 a litigant in such a case can ask for a board of viewers who will hear the testimony and decide what is due if any. The selection of these viewers was set for this month but continuance was necessary.

CLOSED TOMORROW

The offices of the Court House will be closed Wednesday, Feb. 12, in honor of the birthday of Abraham Lincoln.

STATE REPORTS

In addition to making the annual financial statement for the county, for local use, and building the budget, County Controller Andrew M. Dodds is also charged with the responsibility of making a report for the commonwealth. This report is about ready for submission to the state.

PEP AND PEPPERS

Peppers do not provide very many calories in our food. They are very heavy on nourishment. They are rich in vitamins however.

A good many of our vegetables provide vitamins in generous amounts.

The vitamins seem to put pep in the motor. Vitamins seem to like the bright colors. Green and red and yellow vegetables and leaves provide the most vitamins. Lettuce and cabbage and carrots and peppers and endive and squash and celery will help the cause along.

Animals seem to know more about diet than we do. Don't blush when a cow looks at you. She may be thinking about some one else.

SEED MIXTURES FOR PASTURE

Because of the shortage of Kentucky bluegrass seed, many Lawrence County farmers will be forced to turn to other pasture grasses which will produce more grazing throughout the season.

Ladino clover and orchard grass can be used for pasture seeding. They will make at least twice as much growth as Kentucky bluegrass and white clover and probably three or four times as much during July and August.

Where there is enough permanent pasture to take care of the grazing needs during the early part of the summer, the first crop from orchard grass and Ladino mixtures may be harvested for silage or hay.

Recovery is very rapid and the field is ready to graze in July when other pasture is getting short.

Orchard grass seed is plentiful and cheap. Five pounds is the maximum rate per acre in order not to crowd out the clover. Some timothy may well be added. One pound of Ladino clover is enough but other clovers also may be included to increase the yield while they last.

Alfalfa, 6 pounds to the acre is excellent where it may be expected to do well, but it seldom lives long where grazed. Three pounds of red clover and 2 pounds of alsike clover often are sown with the Ladino. The seed can be sown with oats or on winter grain.

Since the orchard grass is somewhat coarse and hard to sow it is best not to mix it with clover and timothy seed. It is often mixed with oats or fertilizer but must not be covered deeply or it will fail to come up. It can be drilled, mixed with 200 pounds of superphosphate or other fertilizer per acre, on winter grain, while the clover seed is put in the grass seed box of the drill. Some farmers sow orchard grass alone with a cyclone seeder, being careful not to take too wide a strip.

BRIDE IN SMALL CHURCH WEDDING

Question: I am to be married as a bride in a small church wedding, having only a maid-of-honor and a best man as attendants. Must we have ushers? Also since we are having only members of both families, I wondered if I must send out formal invitations. The engraver hesitates to accept so small an order. What would you advise? I intend to send out engraved announcements.

Answer: Send informal notes written in ink inasmuch as your wedding will be small (even though you will be small as a bride). Send announcements only to those not invited to the wedding. You need have no ushers if you wish none.

Question: What are the duties of the best man? Must he be the groom's brother?

Answer: On the wedding day, he must be at the bridegroom's house early, check up on the wedding ring and have it safely in his pocket, escort the groom to the place of his marriage a full quarter of an hour before the ceremony begins. After arriving there, he must take charge of the groom's hat and coat and place them where they will be at hand when he needs them after the ceremony. He must pay the clergyman's fee (given to him by the groom) sealed in an envelope. He must escort the maid-of-honor to the bride's home or wherever the reception will take place. Usually, the bridegroom chooses his brother for his best man but not necessarily so.

Question: What are proper refreshments to serve after a three o'clock wedding?

Answer: Tea, coffee or other beverage, tea sandwiches, wedding cake and ice cream.

Present your problems to Miss Markel who will promptly mail personal replies to questions from readers enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelopes.

Mercer Presbytery Young People At Annual Banquet

Rev. Donald W. McClure, Missionary, Makes Chief Address At Meeting At Mercer

One hundred young people from various United Presbyterian churches of Mercer Presbytery assembled at Mercer United Presbyterian church for their annual winter banquet Saturday evening.

John Cowden of New Bedford was toastmaster and introduced Rev. Ferdinand E. Vogan, chairman of Christian Endeavor in Mercer Presbytery, who was pianist of the evening with Don McClelland of Mercer as song leader.

Mrs. Coleen Bell of Grove City sang the special selections, "Morning Without a Song" and "The Star". Marilyn Hodel of Sharon played a piano solo, and Estella Adams of Plaingrove, president of Mercer W.C.T.U., gave a humorous reading, "Aunt Minnie Gets Her Face Lifted".

The attendance banner was awarded to Plaingrove society for having the highest percentage of membership present.

Main feature of the evening was an address by Rev. Donald W. McClure, a missionary who has spent almost 20 years working with the Anauk tribes of Central Africa, and is now home on furlough. Mrs. McClure and three children are in Wheeling, W. Va., visiting her parents while Rev. McClure is touring the eastern part of the United States telling of his work among the Anauks and presenting the need of more missionaries in that field. He showed pictures of natives at Doleib Hill.

A special guest of this banquet was Miss Margaret Anderson, also a missionary at Doleib Hill. She is attending Westminster college.

Rev. G. Galloway, of New Bedford, pronounced the benediction. He was born of missionary parents in Egypt and spent his first 17 years there. He expects to return to that area as a missionary soon.

State Police Say:

When you drive in another state you should make it your business to check on the traffic laws of that state. For example, in the state of Ohio you are subject to a heavy fine if you pass a school bus which is stopped to take on or discharge passengers. Pennsylvania laws do not require you to stop in such cases but the fact that you are an out-of-state driver will not excuse you in states that have such a law.

A prediction that low-flying aircraft firing jets of emulsified DDT will soon rid Egypt and other aggressive eastern countries of their ancient plague of insect-borne diseases is made.

Attorney Joseph McPate will be the guest speaker at Wednesday noon's meeting of New Castle Kiwanis club in The Castleton. He will speak on the subject of "Abraham Lincoln". Member of New Castle Rotary club and an able speaker, Mr. McPate is certain to have an interesting talk about this famous American president.

Byrd Expedition Gets Ice Breaker

Navy's Brand New Ice Breaker Reaches Expedition In Antarctic Area

By LEE VAN ATTA
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
Representing the Combined American Press

ABOARD THE ICE BREAKER NORTHWIND, Feb. 11.—Added insurance for the fourth Byrd antarctic expedition arrived early today.

It came in the shape of the Navy's brand new ice breaker, the U. S. S. Burton Island—double precaution to guard both the ships and men of this polar survey force against the massive and unpredictable Ross ice pack.

Antarctica's late midnight sun cast a shimmering orange glow over the sea as the Burton Island moved in to join the force of transports which are withdrawing from Little America under the guidance of the coast guard ice breaker Northwind. The rendezvous took place at the southern tip of the Ross pack amid seas cluttered with chunks of bergs and rotten ice.

Brings Ice Breaker Through
Commander Gerald Ketcham of Bellingham, Wash., brought the Burton Island through the pack in just over three days. Immediately upon arrival his vessel hove to and Ketcham boarded the Northwind for a conference with Rear Admiral Richard H. Cruzen, force commander.

The two officers discussed the means by which the bulk of the Byrd force will undertake its second meeting with the formidable Ross barrier.

Ketcham reported that the pack extended about 240 miles northwards and after the first 24 hours sailing became solid and difficult to penetrate.

Both Curzen and Ketcham believe, however, that the ships should be able to push their way through in three or four days, barring sudden freezing.

The trip actually constitutes a dual school for the four vessels in this force. Skippers of the three transports are getting their first education in how to command under ice conditions, while Ketcham is giving the Burton Island its shakedown cruise in the heart of the world's worst weather and ice conditions.

The Burton Island, the Navy's first ice breaker, was still under construction when the vanguard of the Byrd force sailed for the Antarctic. She was rushed to completion and was ready for sea on New Year's eve. Supplies were hastily taken aboard and she weighed anchor for the Antarctic without a test run.

Ephraim Bull, the originator of the Concord grape, got very little reward for his fruit, although he spent many years developing it from the wild northern grape.

Demand Another Member Be Added To Liquor Board

Minority Leaders Of State Senate
Urge Appointment Of Third Member

HARRISBURG, Feb. 11.—(INS)—The appointment of a third member to the state liquor control board was demanded today by minority members of the senate who denounced merchandising policies of the agency.

They claimed the board had failed to take advantage of discount savings, had dumped inferior brands on the market during the war, charged higher prices than those of nearby states operating monopolies and had relaxed enforcement of quota and other laws.

The attack on the administration of the $150,000,000 liquor monopoly was made by Sen. Joseph M. Barr (D) Allegheny. He blamed understaffing. A vacancy has existed for six years.

Barr charged the board had permitted a loss of $11,811 in discounts during December, 1944.

In reply, President Pro Tempore Weldon B. Heyburn alleged some discount losses were due to disputed bills and pointed to $2,506,450 earnings in discounts during January, 1945.

Sen. George N. Wade (R) Cumberland, asserted that a system that could produce $42,800,000 profits during the 1945-46 fiscal year could not have a "faulty merchandising policy."

He agreed the board experienced "upsets during the war" but declared the operating system had "been proven sound."

CHARGE OFFICIALS OF CIO INSTIGATED PORTAL PAY SUITS

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 11.—(INS)—Officials and attorneys of the Congress of Industrial Organizations today were charged with instigating and inciting the flood of portal-to-portal pay suits filed by the CIO-United Steelworkers union.

The charges were contained in a petition filed in Pittsburgh Federal court by the Aluminum Company of America asking dismissal of a $50,000,000 portal suit brought by the USW.

The petition asked court permission to take a deposition from USW District 19 Director William J. Hart, a plaintiff in the ALCOA suit.

Company attorneys declared that Hart's testimony was wanted to support the contention that the back-pay suits were instigated by persons who expect to profit by them.

HOPE TO INCREASE SHERIFF'S SALARY

HARRISBURG, Feb. 11.—(INS)—Legislation proposing increasing salaries of sheriffs of all counties except Philadelphia was pending today in the House.

Sponsored by Rep. Thomas H. Lee (R) Philadelphia, the measure called for the following salaries in counties: second class, $12,000; third class, $8,000; fourth class, $7,000; fifth class, $6,000; sixth class, $5,000; seventh class, $4,000 and eighth class, $2,700.

As a result of the housing shortage, a house built in 1939 in St. Petersburg, Fla., of one-quart oil cans set in cement, recently sold for $5,000.

Report 497 Jap Repatriates Drown

TOKYO, Feb. 11.—(INS)—The Tokyo newspaper Jiji Shimpo reported today, in a survivor's story, that 497 Japanese repatriates home-bound from Korea were drowned last October 29 when a 100-ton auxiliary vessel ran aground and broke up in the surf.

The disaster, reported now for the first time, occurred near Chinnampo, Korea, according to the story.

Repatriation officials in Tokyo said the crowded little ship must have been operating illegally. They said there was only one officially recorded disaster in the post-war repatriation of Japanese from overseas—the loss of 400 repatriates when the Enoshima Maru struck a mine.

Believe Two Held Who Stole Much Of Mussolini's Funds

ROME, Feb. 11.—(INS)—Milan police headquarters was under a strict news blackout today as officials reportedly grilled two men suspected of stealing a large part of Mussolini's personal fortune and turning it over to a major Italian political party.

The arrested men, said to be key figures in a scandal which may rock political circles, were identified by Como province police as Pietro Terzi and Remo Mentasti, both former Partisans.

Terzi was said to have stolen 500 million Italian lire and 35,000 Swiss francs on behalf of an unnamed "secret organization."

Police reportedly charged Mentasti with having taken 50 million lire and 78 pounds of gold and giving it to a deputy of the constituent assembly.

Runaway Vessel Finally Caught

ASTORIA, Ore., Feb. 11.—(INS)—After a 30-mile chase, the Coast Guard Cutter Onondaga and the Army Tug LT 373 last night succeeded in placing a line on the 320-foot ship Arrow, which broke away from her tow early yesterday at the mouth of the Columbia River.

The Army Tugs LT 373 and Colonel Albert Barkley were towing the ship from Seattle to Mothball Fleet moorage at Astoria when they reported the Arrow's line parted.

The ship, unmanned, drifted rapidly in a northwest direction on an ebb tide.

The Arrow, built in World War I, was used in the last war in inter-island service in the Hawaiian Islands.

Seeking Cause Of Lock Haven Blaze

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., Feb. 11.—(INS)—An investigation to ascertain the cause of the fire which claimed the lives of two children and destroyed four homes at Lock Haven was pressed today by state police.

The charred bodies of five-year-old Daniel Grenninger and his sister, Rebecca, three, were recovered yesterday afternoon from among smoking embers in what had been the cellar of their home.

Neighbors told of the desperate efforts of Harry Englert, a former serviceman, to save the children, last seen by helpless bystanders on the second floor of the burning house. Englert attempted to break a window and gain entrance to the house but he was driven back by the flames, according to eye-witnesses. He suffered burns and cuts.

The blaze gained headway when the Flemington Fire company was halted by a freight train at a grade crossing. Another engine company was unable to pump water for lack of sufficient hose to stretch from a creek near the burning structures.

Cpl. William Bouse of Williamsport was ordered to conduct the investigation by the state fire marshal's office.

Investment per employee in the coal industry is about $9,000, in the metal products industry $5,600, in food processing industry $8,400 and the industrial average is about $6,000.

JAPANESE GUNMAN USING U. S. RIFLE, FIRES ON POLICE

TOKYO, Feb. 11.—(INS)—Two Japanese policemen were recovering today from wounds suffered in a battle with a Jap gunman wielding an American Browning automatic rifle.

The thug told arresting officers he had purchased the rifle from a friend several days ago.

The gun battle occurred in a taxi dancehall in the heart of Tokyo. The ballroom had been declared off limits for Allied soldiers and no Americans were involved.

The gunman, however, will be tried in the provost court for violation of an Allied directive prohibiting any Japanese from possessing a weapon.

OTHER CITY HALL NEWS AND NOTES

Council met Monday in City Hall where they placed the stamp of approval on plans and specifications for a proposed theater to be erected by the Monessen Theater company, in South Jefferson street at Market street.

The solons adopted this action following a report by Finance Director Albert Hoyland and assistant to the fire chief, George Harper, in which they stated they found the plans conforms to city building and safety regulations.

Safety Director D. O. Davies presented a motion that approval of the plans and specifications be granted and the plans stamped "approved".

The company has not yet applied for a permit to build but this will be pursuant to final approval by the state, which awaited the city of New Castle's approval.

Seek Recreation Ground

Council took the first legislative move today to procure seven acres and three lots of land in the Seventh ward, formerly owned by J. Logan Sample. The land is in LaFayette street vicinity. The land is desired by the City Recreation commission.

According to a resolution presented by Property Director Joseph D. Alexander, and adopted unanimously, J. Logan Sample died. He left the property in trust for certain parties.

The trustees of the said trust have died and the beneficiaries have allowed the property to be sold for taxes, such having occurred December 11, 1930, by dates recorded in the treasurer's tax books for 1929.

According to the resolution, there is owed to the various taxing bodies: county, $571.92; city institution, $64.63; school district, $3,331.12; and city, $1,771.60.

The resolution provides for the city and school district to tender to the county and county institution the amounts of monies due to the taxing authorities and they quit claim and release the said land to the city and school district.

If this cannot be arranged, the resolution authorizes an expose of the land for sale to the highest and best bidder, but not to exceed $5,102.72, being the total amount of claims which the city and school have against the property.

If the property is acquired, an undivided one half interest will belong to both the city and county, according to the resolution.

The land is desired for recreation purposes.

Foresees Higher Production In '47

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 11.—(INS)—Vice President F. D. Newbury of the Westinghouse Electric company today declared that "there should be no serious or prolonged depression before the late 1950's".

He told members of the Electric League of Western Pennsylvania at a luncheon, commemorating the 100th anniversary of the birth of Thomas A. Edison, that he looked forward to double this year's production over 1946.

Newbury predicted that food and clothing prices will decline but that prices of durable consumer goods and producers' goods will go somewhat higher. He added:

"If there is another wave increase in the steel automobile and electrical industry then still higher prices for durable goods may be expected."

The Westinghouse executive said that if another depression occurs within the next decade the blame can only be placed on ourselves.

New Castle Missionary Gets Station Wagon In Africa

In an air mail letter received over the week end by Woodson W. Collins, 411 Epworth street, from Rev. Clifford C. Ryan, missionary under the Christian Missionary Alliance to French West Africa and resident of this city, Rev. Ryan relates of the arrival of the first post-war station wagon on his field and the excitement among natives and missionaries alike.

Rev. and Mrs. Ryan, who left the states in the fall of 1946 had ordered the station wagon before embarking for Africa and had not expected its arrival for a long time. Rev. Ryan upon receiving the news of the arrival of the car in Africa, and a new room on their compound.

Mrs. Ryan is the sister of Mrs. William Shira of R. D. 6. Their two daughters, Miss Alice Ryan and Miss Judith Ryan are in this country studying and expect to eventually go to the foreign mission field.

Rev. Ryan related that the first long trip of the car was a mercy journey, having received word that one of the missionaries had been stricken by a serious heart attack and had to be removed to a hospital. Enroute the plug on the gas tank was jarred out traveling on the bumpy roads and all the gas leaked out, leaving the missionary stranded. A wooden plug remedied the situation temporarily and with some borrowed gas from a passing truck, Rev. Ryan was able to get to a small town, where gasoline could be purchased at a dollar a gallon.

The missionary couple reported that their health was good, Rev. Ryan stating that he had just completed a masonry job of building a new room on their compound.

Mrs. Ryan is the sister of Mrs. William Shira of R. D. 6. Their two daughters, Miss Alice Ryan and Miss Judith Ryan are in this country studying and expect to eventually go to the foreign mission field.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 11.—(INS)—Domestic food budgets took another stiff blow today as produce men reported wholesale fruit prices have risen 10 to 38 per cent and vegetables 25 per cent within the last week.

Produce men blamed crop-killing frosts in the south for the price rises. Florida oranges showed the sharpest rise, jumping 38 per cent from $2.61 to $3.66 per crate. California oranges rose 10 per cent to $4.05.

Vegetables for the most part increased 25 per cent over last week's prices, it was reported.

GENIUS and GENIE

Thomas Alva Edison

YEARS AGO, before Thomas Edison invented a successful light bulb, our grandparents burned kerosene and candles that were expensive, troublesome and gave very poor light.—but.—

EDISON GAVE YOU SOMETHING NEW AND BETTER

This genius, laboring over thousands of experiments, led the way to better light for better sight,—as well as to a better way of living, with electricity.

TODAY you have bright, cheerful and well lighted homes, stores and offices. There is no reason for them to be otherwise! Because you have LIGHT BY WIRE.

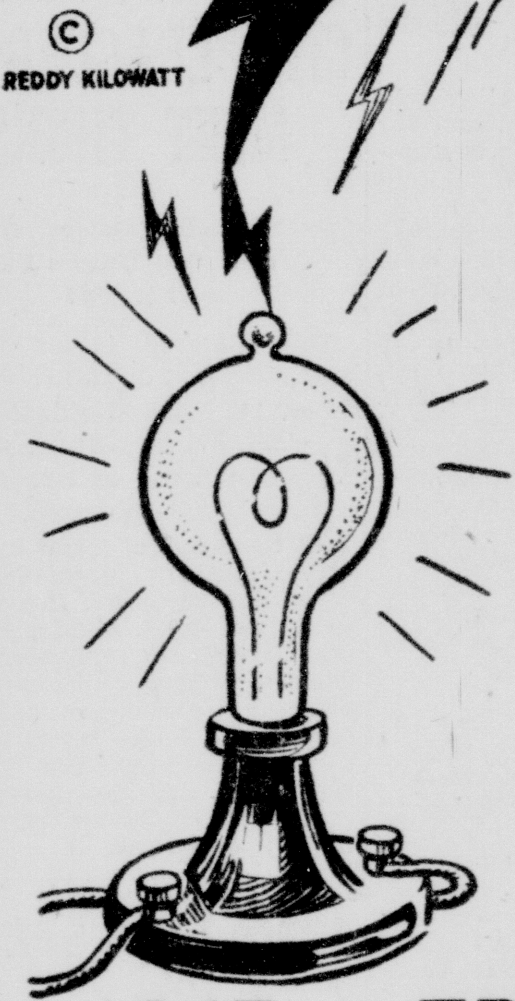

A much better lamp bulb than Edison's first incandescent light can be bought for a thin dime. I, Reddy Kilowatt, will light that bulb for hundreds of hours for a coolie's wages, and give you more and better light.

Edison's successful light bulb was really the start of the electric industry. Today we work and live electrically; we have more comforts and conveniences than any other country in the world,—all because one man had an idea and developed it.

Liquor License Quota Law Under Fire By Veterans

Groups Unable To Obtain Licenses
Because County Quotas Have Been Filled

HARRISBURG, Feb. 11.—(INS)—Legislation excluding clubs from the quota law governing liquor licenses today had the endorsement of four veterans groups and two fraternal organizations.

Bertram J. Murphy, of Reading, counsel for the Pennsylvania Federation of Fraternal and Social Organizations, said the organization supported measures carrying out their recommendation. Introduced by Rep. Warner Deputy (R) Pike.

He identified the supporting groups as the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Marine Corps League, the Jewish War Veterans, American Veterans of World War II, the Loyal Order of Moose and the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Veterans of World War II, Murphy pointed out, were unable to obtain licenses in most cases because county quotas had been filled under the seven-year-old law.

Deputy's proposals not only would exclude clubs from the law but allow Sunday sales starting at 1 p. m., and permit hotels, restaurants or clubs to sell bottled goods for off-premise consumption. Murphy indicated the organizations he represented were interested only in winning exclusion from the quota law. Under existing legislation, Murphy asserted, county courts were divided whether clubs were intended to be encompassed by the law. He said 26 county courts consistently ruled clubs were not intended to fall with the law's provisions while courts in 28 other counties regularly set aside applications for licenses after they had been turned down by the State Liquor Control board.

Pirates Purchase Hurler Jim Bagby

Boston Red Sox Sell Pitcher To Pittsburgh For Waiver Price, Is 30 Years Old

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 11.—(INS)—Jim Bagby, Jr., right-handed pitcher, today was purchased from the Boston Red Sox by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Like the Hank Greenberg case, the Bucs picked him up after other teams in the American league had sent in waivers on him. The purchase price, however, was believed to be more than the $10,000 waiver price.

Record Is Even
Bagby, 30, won seven and lost six for the American league champions last year. His eight-year record in the majors, with Cleveland and Boston, shows 92 wins and 92 losses.

His best years were 1942 and 1943 with Cleveland when he won 17 games each year. He is the son of Jim (Old Sarge) Bagby, who also pitched for Cleveland before the First World War and who wound up his career with the Pirates in 1923.

School Directors Commend PIAA For Eligibility Stand

Refuse To Support Resolution By Assemblyman For PIAA Probe In State

HARRISBURG, Feb. 11.—(INS)—The Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic association today had the approval of the Pennsylvania School Directors' association for "the equitable administration of its eligibility code".

Before adjournment of its 51st annual convention, the association adopted a resolution commending the PIAA which has been involved in a controversy with non-member schools over eligibility rules. The resolution, approved without debate, pointed out that the association has had representation on the PIAA Board of Control for five years and knew the organization's policies and objectives.

Resolution Rejected
The PIAA was praised for "its maintenance of high standards for interscholastic athletic competition which are so essential to the protection of the health and physical welfare of the individual contestants of the public schools in this state".

The Resolutions committee refused to support a resolution introduced in the State House of Representatives by Rep. David H. Weiss (D) Westmoreland, calling for a probe of the PIAA.

The possibility that George S. May, promoter of goldfom's richest tournament, the All-American at Chicago's Tam O'Shanter Club, may cancel the program, hangs over the golf world.

Mel Ott, manager of the Giants, isn't entirely without hope. He promised recently that the Giants would not finish last again this season.

Greenberg-Fesler Ponder Decisions

Greenberg May Change Mind About Playing, Fesler Headed For Ohio State

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 11.—(INS)—This city of smoke and steel basked briefly in the glare of the sports spotlight this week while a couple of sports celebrities considered a pair of apparently diametrically opposite decisions.

Big Hank Greenberg decided not to play baseball for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Points To Consider
Wesley Fesler, University of Pittsburgh football coach, pondered a grid mentorship offer from Ohio State university, his alma mater. Fesler was expected to give up his Pitt job to go to Columbus.

And a lot of baseball fans expected Greenberg would reconsider his decision to quit baseball before the start of March hit the training camps.

But there were plenty of points for consideration in both cases.

Schools Do Fine Job In March Of Dimes Campaign

City Schools Contribute Almost One-Sixth Of Amount Raised In Recent Campaign

Of the $6,112 reported in the annual March of Dimes campaign of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, almost one-sixth was contributed by the school children of the city of New Castle, William R. Hanna, chairman of the Lawrence county chapter, announced today.

The children, it seems, take a greater interest in this campaign because the disease is one which affects children, and they are anxious to help their playmates in distress.

The contributions by schools were as follows: North Street, $66.55; Highland Avenue, $68.09; Arthur McGill, $95.68; Oak Street, $60.60; Croton Avenue, $40.48; Thaddeus Stevens $76.60; Rose Avenue, $71.35; Lincoln and Garfield, $69.19; Pollock Avenue, $60.22; West Side, $35.96; Mahoningtown, $60.81; Washington $27.65; Franklin $40.30; Senior High, $39.50; St. Joseph's, $45.04; St. Mary's, $49.61; St. Philip and James, $37.90; total, $1,012.66.

The amounts contributed by the rural schools are now being computed and will be announced later, Chairman Hanna announced.

Louisiana State's 1947 football schedule, still in the tentative stage, calls for opening games on successive weekends with Rice, victors over Tennessee in the Orange Bowl, and Georgia, which defeated North Carolina in the Sugar Bowl.

Recent Wage Offer To Be Discussed

According to CIO officials, the Shenango Pottery officials and CIO representatives will meet Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock with the company and union committees to review the company's recent wage offer.

A tentative date in March has been set for a management and CIO meeting of the Metropolitan Paving Brick company of Bessemer, it was announced today.

Y-Teen Clubs

Ben Franklin Y-Teen club of Ben Franklin Junior High school met Monday afternoon for a regular meeting.

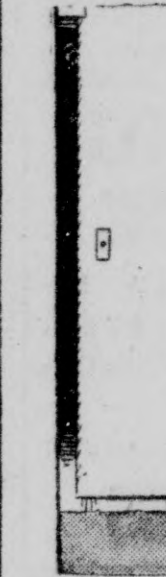

Devotionals were conducted by Marilyn Kelly and business was in charge of Judy Rozzi.

A quiz program followed in charge of Geraldine Palmer, Rose Marie Palmer and Lottie Roth. Plans were completed for a Valentine party at the Y. W. C. A. on Monday, February 17.

ANTI-SMOKE DRIVE
HARRISBURG, Feb. 11.—(INS)—Legislation opening the way for anti-smoke campaigns in third class counties and second class townships was before the House today.

One measure, introduced by Rep. George D. Stuart (R) Allegheny, was directed at second class townships but specifically exempted railroads from the proposal. The other bill, sponsored by Rep. Richard H. West (R) Beaver, contained no provision about railroads.

Law To Destroy Germany's Means Of Waging Wars

Lt. Gen. Clay Issues An Historic "Declaration" Law Banning Big Trusts

BERLIN, Feb. 11.—(INS).—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American commander in Europe, announced issuance today of an historic "decartelization" law by the U.S. military government in Germany.

He said the law is designed to destroy Germany's economical potential to wage war and lay the groundwork for a healthy democratic German economy.

Under Potsdam

Issued "in furtherance of the Potsdam agreement," the law was described officially as an interim measure pending a quadripartite directive.

Among the leading trusts affected in the American zone are the Opel Works at Rueselsheim, the Bosch Works at Stuttgart, Gute coal mines, the Hoffmannschuetze establishment at Nurnberg, the Metallgesellschaft of Frankfurt, and the Degussa plant at Frankfurt.

STOCK MARKET TREND IS LOWER

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(INS).—Further selling clipped fractions to more than a point from leading stocks today. Trading was quiet. Profit-taking was most evident in those issues which had run up sharply in past weeks.

Chrysler was hit hard. It fell 2 points to 100 on a few sales. General Motors lost a fraction. Steels took a turn for the worse with Bethlehem off nearly 2 and U. S. Steel down more than a point. Santa Fe slumped almost 2 points and most other rails declined fractions. DuPont lost a point and U. S. Gypsum 2 points.

Small setbacks were accorded American Telephone, American Can, International Nickel, Montgomery Ward and Goodyear. Electric Auto-rite sagged a point.

American Woolen was supported along with U. S. Rubber and Schenley.

Bonds worked irregularly lower. Curb shares were in supply.

Oleo License Fee Big Issue Facing State Lawmakers

Legislature Must Either Reduce Or Abolish Margarine Sales License Fees

OTHER FARM NEWS FROM HARRISBURG

HARRISBURG, Feb. 11.—(INS)—The legislature faced the task of either abolishing or reducing fees on oleomargarine sales licenses.

Enactment of a new law apparently would be preferable to retaining the present statute bearing the stigma of court outlaw.

There was some indication that a sharp reduction of the license fees may be sought as a compromise by legislators from urban sections favoring an end of the "protective" excise which held oleo prices high.

House Minority Leader Hiram G. Andrews questioned the logic of imposing fees on margarine while sales of lard substitutes were tax free.

He approved manufacturing and sales safeguards.

Pennsylvania honey production declined 15 per cent during 1946 but the value of the product increased nearly 20 per cent.

The State Agriculture department reported 5,068,000 pounds of honey were produced last year, a 900,000 pound drop from 1945, the department reported. The crop was estimated at $1,551,000 compared with $1,368,000 the previous year. The decline was attributed to cool wet spring weather.

Unfavorable conditions were reflected in a 48,000 pound drop in the beeswax yield. The value of the wax was up 30 per cent, the department said.

Six exhibits of Belgian horses at the Pennsylvania Farm Show have been awarded cash prizes totaling $1000 while two Percheron breeders had awards amounting to $750. Top premium in most horse classes were $30 for stallions and mares. Fifteen Percherons and 27 Belgian horses were entered.

The Percheron grand champion stallion and mare were exhibited by Jesse Darlington, Darlington, Delaware County. The top Belgian stallion honor went to the Old Home Manor farm, Homer City, Indiana county, and the mare award was won by Stuffed farms, Indiana.

The Pennsylvania Production and Marketing administration was pushing a campaign to boost sales of home grown potatoes.

Potato growers had approximately 1,000,000 hundredweight of spuds on their hands, the PMA pointed out. The federal government has purchased 847,000 hundred pound bags of tubers and distributed 88,194 hundredweight to institutions and mills for livestock feed.

New Radio-Phone Shown Rotarians

Local Manager N. N. Jaquish Of Bell Telephone Explains How New System Works

PICTURE GIVES FURTHER DETAILS

Through the courtesy of Rotarian Homer Choate, district manager of the Bell Telephone company, New Castle Rotary club members were given an explanation of how the new radio-telephone, recently developed by the Bell Telephone company operates.

N. N. Jaquish, local manager, gave a brief talk on the subject and then presented two films, the one giving a clear explanation of this subject through a voco-film, while the second picture was entitled "Telephone Courtesy" and showed the audience how better service can be obtained from one's phone, by extending the same courtesy to the person being called as one would expect himself. It also depicted the many faults committed by the average telephone user, which results in poor service.

The pictures were shown by E. K. Davis of the Bell Telephone company of Pittsburgh.

The radio-telephone is now in use in the larger cities of the country and will be further developed as fast as the demand for it grows, it was explained.

Mrs. Lida Green Begins 18th Year Of Faithful Service At Margaret Henry Home

At the Margaret Henry Children's Home, Mrs. Lida Green, matron, has commenced her eighteenth year of faithful service as mother to many children.

Mrs. Green began her service February 9, 1929, under the late Marcus Feuchtwanger, who was at that time, president of the board of directors. Mrs. Green was assistant to the late Margaret Henry until Miss Henry's death June 14, 1940, following which Mrs. Green was appointed matron, by the board.

Of the sixty-nine boys and girls who have been raised in the home, and served in the U. S. armed forces during World War II, ten were raised from childhood by Mrs. Green, and she helped in the supervision of the other fifty-nine.

Mrs. Green was a resident of Foxburg prior to coming to the home. She and her late husband, Claude L. Green were owners of the Star theater there.

She has received many congratulatory cards from her own town, and from many of the children to whom she has been mother. A letter was received from William Grey, Detroit, Mich., chairman of the Margaret L. Henry reunion committee, containing best wishes. A group of former children of the home presented her with an orchid, and there was a beautiful bouquet of flowers from the personnel of board of directors, and her present family at the home.

Many friends called Sunday at the home, tendering their congratulations. The usherettes for the day were Misses Mary Ann and Anita Tropicone, Virginia Sanders, Shirley Cooper, Theresa and Carol Wyza. Ushers were Bill and George Sullivan, John Wyza, John Slobodan, Bob Eagan, Bob Andajian, Raymond Kline, Donald McKain, Carl Sanders, who are all Boy Scouts.

A dinner was served by Mrs. Green, with a number of out-of-town guests and former children of the home present, who presented her with a lovely pen and pencil set. Miss Bertha Patterson, assistant matron, assisted in serving, also Mrs. William Grocutt, Mrs. Jack Grocutt, Mrs. Jesse Reed, Mrs. Jack Campbell, this city; Mrs. Mel Reno, Sharpville; Mrs. Clyde Rittner, Titusville; Mrs. George Gordon, Cleveland; Mrs. Patrick Riley, New York City; Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Riley are house guests of Mrs. Green. Will Not Rehear Decision In Case Of Negro Murderer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(INS)—The Supreme Court Monday refused to reconsider a decision which may send Willie Francis, young Louisiana Negro murderer, to the electric chair for the second time.

The high court rejected a plea for a rehearing on its five-to-four decision of January 13 upholding a Supreme Court of Louisiana ruling that Francis must pay the full penalty of the law for his crime.

Francis escaped death by electrocution last May when the state's portable electric chair failed to work.

The majority of the high court ruled that this "accidental" failure did not expose Francis to the unconstitutional hazard of paying twice for the same offense.

In denying the motion for a rehearing, the high court vacated the stay of execution which was granted when it agreed on June 10, 1946, to review the case.

Francis has already been refused a commutation of sentence by the Louisiana Board of Pardons.

His sole remaining chance of escaping the chair would be the exercise of the powers of clemency by the state governor.

Joseph S. Eve, Jr., the president of the club opened the program with brief remarks and thanked the chairman of the party, Rudy Herman and his committee for the success of the evening. A one hour floor show was appreciated.

Under the direction of Prof. W. A. Nishwitz, the male chorus of the organization presented several glee numbers. At the piano for the pep singing was Robert Gaston of Globe, Arizona, formerly of New Castle, who with his wife is visiting in New Castle for a short time.
